THE FAMILY OF THOMAS WILLINGTON CROSBY
By: Samuel N. Crosby and David P. Mason

Tom was in the timber business in Stockton and Foley. He played fiddle at local dances in Baldwin County. He came to one local dance and the people at the dance had disbanded early. The reason was that one man had challenged anyone in the dance to a fight and had whipped each challenger. He was standing on a table crowing like a rooster and flapping his imaginary wings when Tom walked up to him and said "Why don't you fly down on me, Rooster!" The man got down off the table and went home.
