History and Philosophy

The Baldwin County Regional Juvenile Detention Center was created by an act of the legislature in 1990. The act authorized the Baldwin County Commission to construct and operate the facility. It also named the facility the Phyllis S. Nesbit Building after the first elected female juvenile judge of Baldwin County.

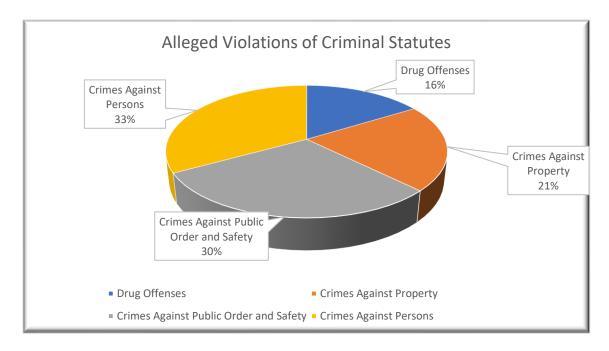

The construction of the building began in July of 1991 and was completed in April of 1992. The facility began operation on June 2, 1992.

The legislature established the Alabama Department of Youth Services in September of 1973 with the responsibility of establishing minimum standards for juvenile detention facilities. The Department of Youth Services licensed the Baldwin County Regional Juvenile Detention Center in June of 1992. The facility acts as a regional facility and serves five other counties and their juveniles.

The purpose of the Baldwin County Regional Juvenile Detention Center is to provide temporary care of delinquent children or children alleged to be delinquent in secure custody pending court dispositions or transfer to a residential facility for further care of a child adjudicated to be delinquent.
